Briefly

Road rules class

Secretary of State George H. Ryan, in cooperation with the Granite City Council of Senior Citizens, will conduct a Rules of the Road review course Jan. 31 for all citizens in the Granite City area. This course is free to everyone, any age, who wishes to attend.

The two-hour class is designed to answer questions about the Rules of the Road and to assist participants in preparation for examination. Topics include written, vision and road tests.

The Rules of the Road review course will be held from 9 to 11 a.m. Monday, Jan. 31, at the Granite City Township Building, 2060 Delmar Ave.

For more information, persons may call 877-4373.

School comedy

Granite City High School will present Wendy Wilson's comedy play, "Don't Drink the Water," tonight and tomorrow at 7:30 p.m. in the high school auditorium.

The play centers around a New Jersey father and his family accused of spying in a Communist country.

Tickets are $3 and may be purchased at the door.

Madison forum

"Celebration of Life" will be the theme of a forum at St. Mary's Catholic Church, 1621 10th St., Madison, from 9:30 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. Wednesday, Feb. 2.

A video, "Celebration of Life," will be shown. Guest speakers include Mrs. Marj Weller of St. Elizabeth Medical Center, Marsha Buck of the Mid-America Transplant Association and the Mid-America Eye Bank; one eye bank; January 1992 heart transplant recipient, Pete Mahlman; and the Rev. Patrick Norris of St. Louis University Medical Center, who will speak on "Death with Dignity."

The forum is sponsored by Church Women United and coordinated by Elizabeth Drury of Niedergorsing United Methodist Church and Sister Bernadette of St. Mary's Catholic Church.

Believing that hundreds of Madison County residents do not pay any personal property tax, a group of citizens decided to furnish each tax assessor with a list of such residents. Schools have been suffering from a lack of sufficient funds.

Truck route debate

Council looks at 4 alternatives

By Bob Slatz
Staff writer

Granite City aldermen agree the city must change its truck route into and out of North Granite.

But ward concerns over truck traffic have turned consideration of proposed new routes into a battle where politics is prevailing over practicality, some aldermen say.

By an 8 to 1 vote Tuesday night, the City Council placed on first reading an ordinance establishing a new truck route, providing access to and from the North Granite neighborhood through the downtown and West Granite neighborhoods.

The council is expected to consider new Tuesday night. Some members of the public wishing to provide input may address the City Council at a public hearing Monday at 6 p.m.

While three other proposed routes have been considered, aldermen of the respective wards affected by each of the proposed routes argued Tuesday to keep trucks on streets in areas they represent.

"There are a couple of persuasive aldermen pushing different proposals, but I would like the members of this council to vote their conscience," said 7th Ward Alderman Sandy Crites.

As a member of the Traffic Committee, which is to the proposed route, Crites presented a minority report containing an alternative plan.

A new truck route must be established because the Illinois Commerce Commission and the Norfolk and Southern Railroad have tentatively pledged $750,000 to the city for the extension of two dangerous railroad crossings — including one at the intersection of Missouri Avenue and Nameoki Drive, on the current truck route, leading from Granite to Highway 3.

The city plans to utilize the ICC and railroad funds to build two new roads leading to the North Granite neighborhood.

One of the proposed new roads would extend Nameoki Drive from 25th Street south to 22nd Street, and trucks carrying 24-ton steel coils to enter and exit North Granite through the downtown and West Granite neighborhoods.

Among the aldermen concerned over the new truck route are the number of turns, the ability of streets to handle heavy truck traffic, the length of the proposed route, and the nature of the neighborhoods through which the trucks would be running.

Ward 4 Alderman Foster Fredrick, chairman of the Traffic Committee, said the majority of the committee recommended a 1 1/2-mile-long route that would take trucks from North Granite along the proposed extension of Nameoki Drive to 22nd Street, where they would turn left and (see TRUCKS, Page 2A)

Ambulance fees may be doubled

Hike would cut city's loss

By Bob Slatz
Staff writer

It may soon cost twice as much to use the Granite City fire department ambulance service.

The Fire and Water Committee of the Granite City Council has unanimously proposed that ambulance rates be doubled.

Alderman Craig Tarpoff, chairman of the committee, said that ambulance rates will still remain lower than those of other services in the area.

Tarpoff estimated the cost of the ambulance service to the city at more than $800,000 per year.

Last year, ambulance fees produced about $225,000 in revenue, resulting in a profit of close to $400,000, Tarpoff said.

Figures from the Melville Strategic Management Review of City and Township Operations committee's estimated.

It is difficult to pinpoint the exact cost of the service because paramedics and emergency medical technicians that man the ambulance also serve as city firefighters, Tarpoff said.

The fire department is also funded by property taxes and other city revenues. While taxpayers would not notice a change in the service available, users would ideally pay for operating costs, Tarpoff said.

But that was not happen even if the proposed double fees is approved, Tarpoff said.

Doubling the fees will produce about $175,000 in additional revenue, Tarpoff said, cutting losses substantially, but still not creating a "break-even" situation.

The reason that doubling fees will not double revenues is that some insurance companies and Medicaid will only pay a certain amount for services, he said.

And because Medicaid is about 18 months behind in payments, the city will not see all resultant revenue from the fee increase until more than a year after it is implemented, Tarpoff added.

Fire and Water Committee member Bob Shipley supported the proposed double ambulance fees for doubling them. You can't give the service away and you can't keep this thing completely in the hole," Shipley said.

Fire Chief Keith Talley said that there are many who desperately need the emergency service, but added that manufacturers abuse the service, especially those on public aid.

"If they have that green card and we respond, we can't deny them service," Talley said.

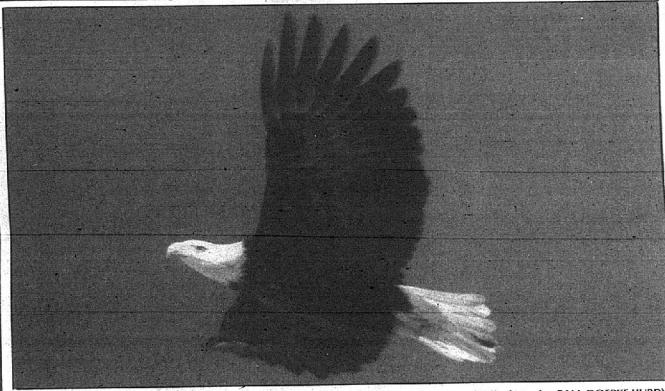

He cited an example of a man who used to regularly call for an ambulance after getting drunk in a tavern outside the city.

"He would call an ambulance to take him to the emergency room at St. Elizabeth Medical Center. Before the paramedics were done with their paperwork, he'd be walking across the street to his girlfriend's house," Talley said.

"He just didn't want to pay for a taxi."

Under the committee's proposal, the fee to transport a city resident in an emergency situation in a Basic Life Support (BLS) ambulance would increase to $210 from $105, the fee to transport a nonresident in an emergency situation in a BLS unit would increase to $350 plus $3.25 per mile from $175 plus

Flying high — An American Bald Eagle circles Horseshoe Lake near Bend Road last Thursday afternoon. Five Bald Eagles have been spotted in the Horseshoe Lake area. Although birds of prey usually don't hunt here, they may have moved into this area because of the extreme cold in the northern United States and overcrowding at other favorite hunting areas along the Mississippi River where food has been cut by the summer flooding.

Girl was threatened before killing

A 21-year-old Worden man called his ex-girlfriend and threatened her before he drove to her home and shot her to death, witness testified.

Matthew Pike, who was shot in the arm, shoulder and groin in the same incident, testified Tuesday that Michael Strader called from his home to confront Donnell Awalt and threatened her a few minutes before he arrived at her house.

Strader is on trial for the first-degree murder of Awalt and the attempted first-degree murder of Pike, 22, her boyfriend. Strader is accused of gunning them down Aug. 2, 1992, after a night of drinking.

"We were in her bedroom and she got a phone call," Pike said Tuesday. "It was (Strader) and he was screaming at her. He said 'you did it at this time.' He said he was going to come over and take care of business."

Strader also stalked Awalt, forced her off the road and attempted to choke her in the weeks before she was gunned down in her back yard, witness testified Tuesday. 18-year-old friend of Awalt's, said Strader attacked Awalt, 17, on her front porch about two weeks before her death and attempted to choke her before she broke free and ran inside.

"(Strader) told her if she was with (Pike) again she would regret it in the worst way," Lovsey said. "She was really scared."

Awalt's mother, Clara Awalt, testified that Strader had broken (see KILLING, Page 2A)

International relations

Steelworkers travel to Japan

By Mike Myers
Staff writer

Granite City steelworker Dave Dowling said his business trip to Japan last week was a huge success and he and other American steelworkers are hoping such trips are the wave of the future.

Dowling, president of United Steelworkers of America Local 67 at Granite City Steel, was part of a USWA delegation that traveled to Japan to plead the case of USWA Local 2660 workers at the National Steel Plate Mill in Kure, Japan. National Steel Plate and Granite City Steel are owned by National Steel Corp., based in Mishawaka, Ind., which is in turn owned by Nippon Kokan Corp. of Japan.

The delegation met with union and company officials and U.S. Ambassador to Japan Walter Mondale.

Workers at National Steel went on strike in August, but claimed they were not given a chance to negotiate a contract. They locked them out when they attempted to return to work. The union has charged a number of unfair labor practices and the case is before the National Labor Relations Board. In Japan, the delegation met with leaders of Tekuto Roren, the Japanese Council of the International Metalworkers Federation and the Federation of NKK Steelworkers union.

Dowling said some of Japanese labor leaders were apprehensive at first that the delegation might be "American troublemakers" who would threaten their good relationship with the company. But after three days of meetings, including the night before, several steelworkers, Dowling said, "realized we were not hotheads" and shared the American's concern.

David Foster, USWA District 33 director and a member of the delegation to Japan, said international relations should be a major part of the union's role in the future.

As the ownership of the steel industry has become multinational, our union has reached out to the steel industry unions of other countries for joint solutions of our common problems," Foster said. "We feel the effort that has taken place in Tokyo this week between the USWA and Proceed to Adams Street.

Trucks would then turn right on Adams, go two blocks to 20th Street, turn right and follow 20th Street across two sets of railroad tracks to 20th Street. Then they would take West 20th to Rock Road, turn right, and follow Rock Road to the highway.

That is the route that was Tuesday by a one-vote margin.

But 5th Ward Alderman Tom Candler, who represents the areas of Adams Street and Rock Road along the proposed route, said that other alternatives, including Crites' — would be less disruptive of residential areas, require fewer street closures, and would more easily accommodate heavy trucks.

And Crites suggested that trucks coming from North Granite, it could take the proposed extension of Nameoki Drive to 22nd Street, take West 22nd one block to Missouri Avenue, and follow Missouri Avenue to Highway 3.

Candler said his proposed route, which is a little more than a half-mile long, would include only one turn and a curve.

Candler implied that Frederick, as chairman of the committee, avoided the Missouri Avenue route because it is in the 4th Ward.

"This didn't go through the proper channels," Candler said.

Frederick said "a majority" of the three-member committee favored the Rock Road route.

"I think it's an improvement that's been done, it hasn't been by the chairman of the (Traffic) committee," Frederick asked.

But Crites said after the council meeting that the decision had been made prior to the committee meeting at which the alternatives were discussed.

Condemned man's appeal denied

SPRINGFIELD — A man condemned to death for murders in Madison and St. Clair counties is nearing the end of the line after nearly 15 years of appeals.

The 7th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals, in a decision seeking a denial of Givens Davis' motion seeking a decision on whether his constitutional rights would be violated

Ward 5 Alderman Eddie Asadorian, the third Traffic Committee member, voted against the Adams Street/Rock Road proposal.

Asadorian called the truck route "an area of concern" and suggested that the whole matter be referred back to the committee for further consideration.

Alderman Dan Partney, who also voted against the proposal, said the 4th Ward, said that the Missouri Avenue proposal would direct truck traffic through a residential area consisting of children who would go to Frasher Elementary School because the school district does not provide bus service to the neighborhood.

Partney said that three different routes for the two-block section of Adams Street in the Traffic Committee's recommended route are "industrial in nature and only one side is residential." The other two routes involve trucks running through and cutting up predominantly residential neighborhoods," Partney asked.

Partney also said the Missouri Avenue alternative would take trucks across a proposed new railroad crossing on Missouri Avenue near A.O. Smith Corp. — a proposed crossing that will allow the railroad to close to the two existing crossings in the first place.

He said the Missouri Avenue proposal would put trucks along the street while waiting for trains to clear the crossing.

If the majority of the aldermen approved the Adams Street/Rock Road proposal, Partney said, the city could direct trucks coming from North Granite along 25th Street to the proposed railroad crossing.

Trucks could then proceed five blocks to 20th Street and then leave the city via Rock Road, Partney said.

He has been impressed by the seriousness of NKK in their desire to resolve a problem of their American subsidiary," Lester said.

Foster said the trip was a success. "We came to Japan to seek resolution of an American labor dispute since the American managers were refusing to meet with us," Foster said. "We were surprised to find unions in Japan to be supportive of our cause and the management of NKK concerned about our problems."

Pike further testified Tuesday he and Awalt went outside with Strader and was waving a gun at them.

Awalt reportedly pushed and slapped Strader a few times while he was holding a loaded .22-caliber rifle.

"He asked her who she wanted to be with," Pike said. "(Awalt) said, 'It sure ain't you because you're all I have.'"

"He then started shooting," Pike said. "He shot Donnell first and I dove behind a tree. (Strader) then real pale and ran to his car and drove away."

Pike then ran to Awalt's side after Strader left.

"She said, 'please help me, I can't breath. Please help me,'" Pike said. "From the Alton Telegraph

He was under the bed with a cover pulled over her," Awalt said. "She said she was scared and that (Strader) was going to come and kill us all. She heard him try to get in her bedroom window."

Strader's attorney, J. William Lucco, questioned Clara Awalt about wedding plans that Strader and her daughter allegedly discussed in July before Awalt ended the relationship.

Awalt said she was not aware of any wedding plans, but that her daughter was wearing a ring from Strader.

Lucco has said Strader was too intoxicated to think straight at the time of the shootings.

Club takes donations for food baskets

Maxine Green

Maxine Green covers the Granite City and Nameoki Township area for the Press-Record/Journal. She can be contacted at 337-6256.

President Susie Horton convened the first 1994 Better Breathers meeting.

She suggested that instead of collecting food all year for day food bank, for the money, a food contribution be collected at each monthly meeting and fresh food purchased for the baskets, when distributed. The first collection was taken and put to the use. Food reports will be given each month on the progress.

Cheryl Grieves, director of the Audiology Department at St. Elizabeth Medical Center, was the guest speaker for the January meeting.

She explained with simple terms and a few posters the function of ear wax and why it is important to the inner ear. Hearing loss of any sort needs to be checked by a doctor as soon as possible and properly treated.

Cheryl can be reached for more information by calling 798-3631.

Members attending were Carol Smith, Paula Gonterman, Orval Femmer, Frank and Shirley Wendel, Jack and Ruth Smith, Shirley and Steve Shippard, Marge Hillker, Anna Taylor, Ellen Knackstedt, Elsie Staggs, Pearl Kamadulski, Florence Buettinger, James Novak, Mark Vicki, Homer Fred and Helen Boyer, Marshall McElroy, Pauline Holman and Freddy McElroy.

The next meeting has been changed to 1 p.m. Feb. 15 in the Wiesman Room at SEMC. Rita Zaruba, RN, of Home Health, will be the special guest speaker for the meeting.

Members of the Meadowbrook staff honored in a special awards ceremony were Teresa Reigner, Lois Gandy, Barbara Miller, Gloria Mazzulli, Renée Wilson, Linda Matiella, Latoya Wilson, Anna Winans, Steve Frisse and Paula Burnes. Those all received a "good service" award. Karen Massey, Verdie Sherrill, Kathleen Avery, Marlyn Vetro, Virginia Croy, Tina Tucke, Lisa Wilson and Charles Wykoff, who all received an award, were awarded. Kathy Schaefer, four years; Sarah Chatman and Kim Wykoff, both five years; and Donna Wykoff, six years.

Members of the Meadowbrook staff honored in a special awards ceremony were Teresa Reigner, Lois Gandy, Barbara Miller, Gloria Mazzulli, Renée Wilson, Linda Matiella, Latoya Wilson, Anna Winans, Steve Frisse and Paula Burnes. Those all received a "good service" award. Karen Massey, Verdie Sherrill, Kathleen Avery, Marlyn Vetro, Virginia Croy, Tina Tucke, Lisa Wilson and Charles Wykoff, who all received an award, were awarded. In 1990, Tarpooff and others said groundwater contamination was a plausible explanation for the high underground lead levels and asked the EPA to explain its basis for ruling out that possibility.

John Traub, acting associate division director for the Superfund division of U.S. EPA Region V, said: "I can't speculate on the part of the Illinois EPA. I can tell you that wells have been installed hydraulically up gradient and down gradient of the site and there is no lead contamination present at this time in the groundwater."

Medical Society offers speakers

Health care reform has moved to the top of America's agenda. But with so many claims, counterclaims and complex details, how do we know what is right for us?

Your doctors in Madison County have studied the issues and want to help their patients make sense of it all.

The Madison County Medical Society has organized a Speakers' Bureau that makes physician experts available to discuss health care reform with groups throughout the county.

To schedule a physician to address your organization, contact the Madison County Medical Society, 500 S. 9th Street, East Alton, 62024 or call 259-0024.

Lead cleanup issues will be reopened

Public will have new opportunity to comment

By Mike Myers
Staff writer

But in 1992, EPA tests showed water from eight of the 14 monitoring wells showed levels of lead that exceed the maximum safe level under the federal Safe Drinking Water Act.

Previous tests had not shown any contamination, but Brad Bradley, project manager for the Taracorp Superfund, said the draw change in the current results is apparently because of a flaw in the previous testing procedure and not because of a sudden increase in contamination.

All the previous testing had used groundwater that had been filtered through very small screens and not sealed by the current testing, as required by Illinois clean water regulations, uses unfiltered groundwater.

"I think all indications are the groundwater contamination came from the pile," Bradley said.

"We knew from previous testing that the pile contained the potential to leach. The fact that the higher levels were not found for the most part in the up-gradient wells, but in the down-gradient wells, indicates it came from the pile."

As a result of discovery of the groundwater contamination, last year Valdas Adakmantas, regional manager for EPA Region 5, said that it now appears that, rather than sealing the scrap pile in place, it might be necessary to remove the scrap pile.

"The primary basis for this is groundwater samples taken during the (Remedial Design)," the explanation said.

The EPA's decision indicates that the Taracorp pile may be the source of groundwater contamination and raises the possibility that the Taracorp pile may be recycled and/or disposed of off-site.

A new public comment period on the cleanup plan was mandated by the federal court last year.

The upcoming public comment period will combine this required hearing with a public comment period mandated by the EPA's decision to reopen the ROD concerning the disposition of the Taracorp pile.

Tarpooff said all of the issues raised in 1990 objecting to the EPA's cleanup plan here remain under review.

"We're a lot more educated this time. We have a lot more current information and we have scientific documentation above and beyond what the EPA has," Tarpooff said.

What remains to be seen is if the EPA will be forced to address these concerns and resolve these issues.

Following are some of the issues raised in 1990:

Groundwater contamination

In 1992, prior to the Taracorp site being turned over to the U.S. EPA, testing by the Illinois EPA showed very high lead contamination in soil samples from 15 feet below the ground surface in some places. The contamination was reaffirmed by U.S. EPA tests.

In 1990, Tarpooff and others said groundwater contamination was a plausible explanation for the high underground lead levels and asked the EPA to explain its basis for ruling out that possibility.

John Traub, acting associate division director for the Superfund division of U.S. EPA Region V, said: "I can't speculate on the part of the Illinois EPA. I can tell you that wells have been installed hydraulically up gradient and down gradient of the site and there is no lead contamination present at this time in the groundwater."

As a result of pressure from local officials and the Illinois Department of Public Health, the EPA agreed to do a soil testing for lead levels in residents, but said that any result would be a "snapshot."

Shaded portion shows boundaries of yards to be dug up and removed under the EPA's current plan.

and not a "complete picture" of the problem and, therefore, would not affect the cleanup plan.

The preliminary results of the blood-lead study showed elevated blood-lead levels in only about 16 percent of the children tested.

Many opponents to opponents of the EPA's plan, the results showed no correlation between elevated blood-lead levels and elevated soil-lead levels.

In a case of elevated blood-lead levels, another source of lead — such as lead paint — was identified.

In all three cases, the lead source was removed and subsequent testing showed a drop in the blood-lead level.

"The testing showed that, despite elevated levels of lead in the soil, the lead contamination problem in our city is no different than in any other urban area," Tarpooff said.

Household dust as a lead source

As a number of scientific studies in the United States and Great Britain indicate household dust is the primary source of lead poisoning in children.

This is David Vornberg, an expert on lead contamination and member of the International Society of Environmental Geochimistry and Health.

Tarpooff is asked to make the following hypotheses in 1990 concerning the Granite City soil removal:

• Household dust lead would appear to pose the greatest danger to children.

• Digging up yards would create dust that would spread into homes.

• Wet soil (wetting contaminated soil is the common EPA practice to reduce dust) is mud. Mud, tracked into homes, becomes household dust.

"This decreases the amount of contaminated soil could actually increase the amount of household dust.

And so, Vornberg asked, is the cure worse than the problem?

Also in 1990, William Buck, a professor of toxicology at the University of Illinois suggested that instead of removing yards the EPA should consider neutralizing the lead in the soil — a method he said has been proven at sites in other lead-contaminated sites.

Buck said that adding a mixture of lime and phosphates to the soil would neutralize the lead to harmlessness. Farmers and animals make the grass in the yards grow better, cause much less dust and mud, and cost a "whole lot less" than removing the lead.

Both Buck and Vornberg said that any cleanup plan that doesn't address the issue of household dust would be worthless.

Tarpooff said a number of studies in the past four years concluded that soil cleanup without household dust cleanup is futile.

"It is futile, and ludicrous, to remove soil that is not a proven source of lead (contamination) and not house dust, which is," Tarpooff said.

Is lead threshold arbitrary number?

The EPA's decision to set 500 parts per million of lead as the threshold for soil removal may be the most controversial part of its recent decision.

This level is the emphasis of the federal court challenge of the cleanup plan by NL Industries and a number of the potentially responsible parties to the contamination. Those PRPs bear the cost of the Superfund cleanup.

One issue is the biokinetic uptake model used by the EPA to predict the amount of the available lead in an environment that is actually absorbed into the human system.

Studies by Vornberg and others on the Society for Environmental Geochimistry and Health task force looked at lead-contaminated children and, "backing into" the biokinetic model, predicted a lead level for the soil.

But when the soil was actually tested, the actual lead level was three to four times higher than predicted.

In a number of subsequent studies, Verner and the others said there should be a drastic modification in the presumed amount of dirt eaten daily, used by the biokinetic model. Verner said a figure of .2 gram or 200 micrograms daily, used by the EPA, should be reduced to .06 gram, or 60 micrograms, daily.

Bobby Wixon of Clemson University who headed up the SEGH task force, said there is no such thing as a "magic number" and that the level of lead must be site specific. In 1990, he urged the EPA to hold up making a final decision on the Tara-corp/NL Industries Superfund until the SEGH task force made its final report.

When the final report was made in mid-1990, the SEGH presented a six-phase flow chart leading from discovery of a lead contamination problem to establishing a final solution.

At the end of 1990, a report from the Office of Solid Waste and Emergency Response severely criticized the EPA as a "shop that is still deciding what to do first and then finding a computer model that backed up the decision."

In a professional paper presented by Tarpoff and former Granite City Public Works Director Brett Hanke at the 1991 meeting of the SEGH, Tarpoff said, "I have agreed that the SEGH flow chart with the process they had been apparently used by the EPA — illustrated by a maze in the form of a question mark."

"Like Dr. Frankenstein, he created the 'parts' of scientific research (the biokinetic uptake model) and then put the lead contamination in tissue independent of blood lead levels (and statistical data) and combined them into a monstrosity," the paper said.

Tarpoff said that despite continued scientific evidence, the agency during the past four years, the EPA has "stubbornly stuck to 500 parts per million based only on the now-discredited biokinetic model."

Tarpoff said one of the most important things to remember during the upcoming public comment period is that lead contamination really does pose a threat to health.

"We're not saying 'go away and leave us alone' or that we don't want the lead contamination problem solved," Tarpoff said.

"What we want is a cleanup based on solid scientific principles. We want to clean up the problem once and then be done with it."

"But if the cleanup is based on guesswork — like this one appears to be — then it will be only 10 years from now the EPA will come back and say 'Oops, we guessed wrong' and start the whole thing over again."

"Like Dr. Frankenstein, he created the 'parts' of scientific research (the biokinetic uptake model) and then put the lead contamination in tissue independent of blood lead levels (and statistical data) and com-

producer has a crop history. An example of such a situation would be a producer who had a crop history for planting 50 acres of soybeans and 50 acres of corn.

His 1993 plans were to plant 100 acres of soybeans, but he was unable to assess of flooding or excessive rainfall.

The producer filed for the planned 100 acres of soybeans, but due to crop history, he was given 50 acres. Under payment rules, approval could only be given for 50 acres of soybeans.

The producer may now file for 50 acres of prevented planting.

County agricultural stabilization and conservation service committees must determine that such a crop could have been planted if it had not been for adverse weather conditions.

Farmers affected by flood get aid

U.S. Department of Agriculture Secretary Mike Espy says producers in areas affected by excessive rainfall and flooding who were unable to plant a crop in one or more of their planting history and could not replant another crop — may file for prevented planting payments for the crop for which the farm has a planting history.

"This is another step in our continuing effort to assist those producers who were severely impacted by flooding and excessive rainfall," said Espy.

Under the change, producers who filed for prevented planting payments in 1993 will be allowed to claim their historical planting were limited under disaster payment rules to claiming the historical plantings of that crop.

They may now file for payment for acreage for which the producer has a crop history. An example of such a situation would be a producer who had a crop history for planting 50 acres of soybeans and 50 acres of corn.

Briefly*Klondike Derby is Saturday

The fourth annual Klondike Derby for the Trails West Council, Boy Scouts of America, will be held at Camp Warren Lewis, Godfrey, on Saturday, Jan. 29.

The Klondike Derby is an event somewhat patterned after the Iditarod held in Alaska. Patrols of Scouts pull a sled, equipped with a dog team, for the day, from "city" to "city" competing in events of Scouting skills for gold nuggets. Each patrol must have a minimum of six Scouts. The patrols are routed to seven different cities.

Each city has a different program to test the skills of all the members of the patrol and requires that the patrol work together as a team in order to complete the program.

The Klondike Derby is open to the public to come see Scouting in action. The day starts with sled check-in at 7:30 a.m., with the first race scheduled starting at 8 a.m., and finishing at 3:30 p.m., with the awards ceremony. Meals will be available at the trading post. Dress warmly and come join the fun and the challenges.

Seniors can defer taxes

Qualified senior citizens may defer all or part of their property taxes on their personal residence by applying for a loan, according to the Madison County Treasurer's Office.

The loan has a 6 percent rate, which is to be repaid after the taxpayer's death or when the property is sold.

To qualify, residents must be 65 years or older as of June 1; have a total household income of no more than $25,000; have lived in the property or qualifying property for at least three years; own the property (joint ownership limited to spouse); and have no delinquent property taxes.

Taxpayers will need to complete an application and supply a copy of their current homeowner's insurance to the Madison County Treasurer's Office by March 1. To obtain forms, contact the treasurer's office at 692-7040, Ext. 4024.

Horticulture series to be offered

The resurgence in do-it-yourself, at-home hobbies has many homeowners reassessing their yards and gardens.

To help them, the University of Illinois Cooperative Extension Service will use an innovative combination of tele-conferencing and audio dial-ins to deliver a home horticulture series throughout the state.

In March and April, Extension specialists will offer advice, tips and insights on landscape design, gardens and lawns. The Madison-St. Clair Extension unit offices at 1 S. Third, Belleville and 900 Hillsboro, Edwardsburg, are sponsoring the educational series.

The horticulture series for 1994 includes such topics and speakers as: lawn establishment and maintenance, Tom Voigt; herb gardening, Jim Schmidt; and five-part landscaping planning services, Floyd Giles. The three instructors U of I Extension specialists.

Programs will be presented at Extension unit office, 7-9 p.m. as follows:

- March 7 - Introduction to Landscape Design.
- March 14 - Creating a Design.
- March 21 - Smaller Landscaping Plants.
- March 28 - Larger Landscaping Design.
- April 4 - Putting Plants into the Design.

- April 11 - Herb Gardening.
- April 12 - Personal Landscaping Consultations (via audio graphics for Springfield cluster units).

For information on registration and fees, call the location where you wish to attend. In Belleville, call 236-6600, Edwardsburg, 692-7700.

Poor to be offered free legal services

Free legal service for the poor may be just a telephone call away.

The Madison County Bar Association has instituted a project to help meet the legal needs of people who often fall through the cracks when it comes to getting a fair share of legal help.

More than 30 attorneys in Madison County have volunteered to each accept two civil cases this year in the area of their specialty.

"It's really a great concept," said Assistant Attorney General Dennis Orsey, a former president of the bar association who initiated the project last year.

"The whole purpose behind this evolved from a study conducted in 1989 that found approximately 80 percent of the legal needs of the poor are going unmet," he said.

"These are people who do not have the financial backing to hire an attorney to help them maintain their legal system."

Volunteers began organizing the project Jan. 1.

The bar association will work with the Land of Lincoln Legal Aid Foundation Inc., which already delivers legal help to the poor.

"Land of Lincoln is having a hard time meeting the legal needs of the poor," Orsey said.

"We're trying to supplement their staff with volunteers. Our attorneys have agreed to take on two cases a year and we have even had some sign on eight cases. It's really admirable."

Attorneys in Land of Lincoln's Alton branch will screen applicants and refer them to the bar association attorneys.

Orsey said the association will continue recruiting volunteers throughout the year. He estimated an additional 100 attorneys will volunteer and legal problems will be served by the end of the year.

Those who need assistance with legal matters involving landlords, tenants, domestic violence, public aid, credit Carlie C. Wilson, 67, of Caseyville died at 3:10 a.m. Sunday, Jan. 23, 1994, at his residence after a long illness.

He was born April 17, 1926, in Paducah, Ky., and had been a resident of Caseyville for the past 30 years.

Mr. Wilson was a self-employed television sales and repair man at Curt's Sales and Service, Washington Park, for 25 years prior to his retirement in 1971; a member of the First View Baptist Church, Fairview Heights; a lifetime member of the Country and Western Music Association, Nashville, Tenn.; and a World War II veteran.

Survivors include his wife, Mary Sue (Rutherford) Wilson, whom he married June 24, 1944; two daughters, Linda Sue (Wilson) Ode and Carol (Pearson) Wilson.

He was preceded in death by his son, who died in infancy; three daughters; a son-in-law, Ode and Diane (Pearson) Wilson.

Visitation was held Wednesday at Irwin Chapel, 3960 Maryville Road, Granite City, from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. today with the Rev. Bill Fox officiating. Burial will be at Lake View Memorial Gardens, Fairview Heights.

Memorials to the donor's choice are suggested.

Fred Herschbach

Fred J. Herschbach, 85, of Corpus Christi, Texas, a former area resident, died Monday, Jan. 24, 1994, at Corpus Christi Hospital.

He was born April 19, 1908, in North Carolina and had been a resident of Corpus Christi since 1987.

Survivors include one son, William Herschbach of Belleville, Ill.; a daughter, Barbara (Herschbach) Sauer of Corpus Christi; one brother, Clarence "Bud" Herschbach of Anchorage, Alaska; six sisters, Thelma James of Granite City, Arlene James of Marion, Ill.; Frances Smith of Tucson, Ariz.; Mary Walemate of Steelville, Ill.; Rose Day of Chicago and Christine Sibold of O'Fallon, Mo.; and several grandchildren and great-grandchildren.

He was preceded in death by his wife, Catherine Herschbach; and three brothers, George, James and Ray.

Graveside services and burial were held Sunday at Cheva Kadisha Cemetery, University City, Mo. Arrangements were by Maxwell P. Dunn Funeral Home, Corpus Christi.

Memorials to the donor's choice are suggested.

Racial Harmony Group looks at first year

By Bonita Tillman

Staff writer

With a satisfied look back at a year of accomplishments, members of the Racial Harmony Group look around St. Louis County and vow to strive for new goals.

"I believe it's going to take all of us to be committed to making this a success," said Constance Rockingham, vice president for student affairs at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville.

"I want you to pledge with me. I can develop a plan and create committees, but none of it would work unless you accept some part," she told members. "The beginning of change has begun in each of us."

Rockingham was sworn into office at Clinebridge Minton as vice president. Janet McReynolds as treasurer, Cheryl Gray as secretary, Carolyn Chapman as treasurer and Missy Hamilton, Charles Myles, Robert Wells and William Lyke to three-year terms on the board of directors.

"There's a great deal of goals and a budget," said Wharton. "I believe our incoming president is uniquely capable of doing an educating those above and below the hill that these things we can come together on."

He credited outgoing president Paula Braly with giving usiness to the organization during her two-year tenure.

Among other things, Racial Harmony has hosted sensitivity training for businesses and organizations, sponsored a youth forum for high school students, worked with Belleville officials to create a Human Relations Commission and spearheaded programs between Belleville and East St. Louis police officers and ministers.

"Without Paula Braly's initiative and personal involvement, we would not be here today," Wharton said. "I can't say enough about what she has done to preserve this organization."

Rockingham was created after the publication of newspaper articles in 1990 that alleged racial insensitivity by Belleville police officers to black visitors to the city.

The group initially was organized among Belleville residents who wanted to bring other groups closer for a better understanding of each other. It has since evolved to include other St. Clair County communities.

FAMILY

Catholic Schools Week celebration

Catholic Schools Week is the most celebrated week of the year at St. Elizabeth School. Banners are hung to advertise the importance of Catholic education. Parishioners are informed of the school's activities and are asked to join.

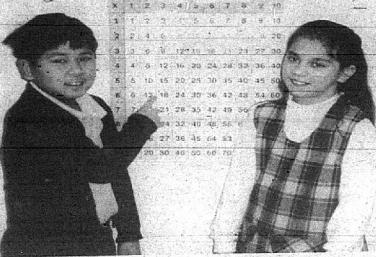

Activities during this special week usually include parents' and grandparents' luncheons with the students, an evening open house, an all-school program, no homework day, an out-of-uniform day, a raffle earning money for the missions or for parish projects and sometimes an early dismissal. Everyone gets caught up in the excitement of the week.

St. Elizabeth School picks a special theme for which the property, school decorations and the yearbook is built. This year's theme was "The Wonderful World of Books."

In living up to its patron saint, St. Elizabeth of Hungary, the school has a dedication to the poor, sick and less fortunate. The following are some ways the school tries to live up to the patron saint's legacy:

Annually at Christmas, students participate in the City Hall's tree-lighting ceremony. This committee is organized and attended by Specialized Services.

Fifth-grade students raised $100 through a bake sale. These monies were used to aid the Jason Aryan and Genny Salanik, third-grade students in Lucile Friedrich's class, with their multiplication table.

Somalian children.

Students assist at a Christmas party held for residents of the local nursing homes.

The student body is responsible for having food drives, which provide Catholic charities with an abundance of food for Thanksgiving and Christmas. The food is accompanied by money to buy any article Catholic charities may need. The school has also collected toys and food for the needy.

A second-grade class raised money to give to a fund for a baby needing a liver transplant. The baby received the liver and is doing fine.

One-hundred dollars was sent to the H.C.A. project, "Giving the Extra Mile for Kids in Need."

All year long, students can put their pennies and change in a jar to be used for a special cause.

One of the school's families was a victim of the flood, so students collected food and other necessary items to help them out.

Moth-a-thon, sponsored by St. Jude Hospital, has received approximately $5,000 from St. Elizabeth School.

Bowl-a-thon, held by grades seven and eight, earned more than $1,100 for the needy.

Hartin-Jackson

Kim Hartin, daughter of Jim and Judy Martin of Granite City, and Terry Jackson, son of Tommy and Barbara Jackson of Madison, have announced their engagement.

Hartin is a 1990 graduate of Granite City High School. She is employed by the Madison County Circuit Clerk's Office, Edwardsburg, as a deputy clerk.

Jackson is a 1989 graduate of Madison High School. He is employed by the Missouri Athletic Club, St. Louis, as a waiter.

The couple is planning a May 14 wedding at Grace Baptist Church, Granite City.

Homemakers get thank-you

Thirty members of Trio Homemakers Club of Granite City met Jan. 4 at the Hope Lutheran Church.

After refreshments were served by Pat Mitchell, Marily Lybarger, Lily Chaboude and Joyce Barrington, a short business meeting was conducted by President Linda Anderson. First Vice President Roberta Correll thanked the hostesses and introduced the local leaders. Barrington and Kathryn Wagner, who gave a presentation, "Landscaping With Perennials."

A letter from Denise Wright from Protestant Welfare was read acknowledging a thank-you note from a large group of toys donated by two home maker clubs.

Get-well wishes were sent to Arlene Brinkmeyer and Mary Wright.

Emma Jakich conducted four games, which were won by Norma Chapman, Helen Robertson, Ada Matras and Cathy Prusak. The annual meeting of the homemaker's Club will be a pot luck dinner served at noon at Hope Lutheran Church.

Touchette-Hagler

Michelle Touchette, the daughter of Gene and JoAnn Touchette of Marine, Ill., and Scott Hagler, the son of Bob and Chari Hagler of Granite City, have announced their engagement.

Touchette is a 1991 graduate of Triad High School and is currently self-employed.

Hagler is a 1984 graduate of Triad High School and a 1987 graduate of Belleville Area High School. He is employed in maintenance at Victorian Village of Spanish Lake, Mo.

No wedding date has been set.

Beta Sigma Phi chapter hears about Gale Ferris

Members of Preceptor Beta Gamma Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi and spouses enjoyed Christmas party festivities at Ralph and Charlie's Restaurant.

Secret Santa gifts were exchanged and the men received gag gifts. The centerpiece was won by Jeannie Ferguson. The group rang bells for the Salvation Army during the month.

Illinois personalities discussed were Jane Addams, winner of the 1931 Nobel Peace Prize for establishing Hull House in Chicago, a center for the poor. She also fought for social reform, child labor laws and helped start the NAACP.

The group also learned of George Washington Gale Ferris, designer of the "pleasure wheel" for the 1893 Columbian Exposition in Chicago.

The forerunner of the Ferris Wheel, this 2,000-ton structure had 36 gondolas and took 20 minutes for one trip around. Ferris Wheels continue to be manufactured by the Eli Bridge Co. in Jacksonville, Ill.

•Lady Warriors

"It's been a joy to work with her. She's been a great help to some from other areas to complement that level of play."

The game was much closer than the final score reflected. The game was tied at 20 entering the fourth quarter, but Granite City seemed to be in control when it took a 43-39 lead on consecutive baskets by Cavaness.

After a 5-1 run by Krista Ester (fouled out) on the bench, Collinsville was lacking inside strength to counter the 6-1 Cavaness.

"Deep down, I thought we were in dire straits when she fouled out (with 6:54 to go)," Harrington said. "It didn't look good for us."

But a three-pointer by Rule closed the Granite City lead to 43-42, and Lane hit a three-pointer on Collinsville's next possession to give the Lady Kahoks a 46-43 lead with 2:10 to go.

After a free throw from Cavaness made it 46-44 with 1:05 to go, Rule drilled another three-pointer to increase the Lady Kahoks' lead to 48-44. Four points later, things deteriorated for the Lady Warriors.

Officials called a technical foul on Weller after he ejected himself from the game for failing to call a foul on Benson as she struggled for a rebound with Cavaness. The ball went out of bounds off Cavaness, and Collinsville regained possession.

The Lady Kahoks (11-6 overall, 5-3 in the Southwestern Conference) then went on a 15-2 run over the final 3:53. Granite City fell to 12-6, 5-3.

"I kind of feel that had the game been consistently off-sided, it would have been a different story," especially a going down toward the end of the game," Weller said. "At that point, they got into a tempo in which they were getting free throws and getting the ball out of bounds. It was hard for us to get a call on that, but both teams played well."

We didn't get the scoring from the perimeter area like we'd like. That's a credit to Collinsville's defense. They played good pressure defense on the perimeter and we weren't able to get many open shots from the outside."

The Lady Kahoks held sophomore Denise McMillan (not three-pointers to seven for Collinsville).

"Once we started playing good defense, we did real well," Rule said. "Defense is the key to every game. (In the second half), we concentrated on setting down the offense and getting good shots."

"You're never going to stop (Cavaness)," Harrington said. "She's going to get her points. But if we didn't stop McMillan, we were in trouble."

Red Devils receive No. 2 regional seed

The Venice Red Devils have earned the second seed for next month's Althoff Class A Regional.

The Red Devils, who won the Wescilm Regional last year, are 8-9 after Tuesday's win over Metro East Lutheran. Venice was seeded behind regional host Althoff in last week's regional meeting.

Madison was seeded sixth in the regional field. Du Quoin received the third seed. Freeburg was seeded fourth. Lebanon was seeded fifth. Wescilm was seeded seventh and Lovejoy was seeded eighth.

The regional will begin Feb. 21 and will feature two games the first two nights. The championship game is scheduled for Feb. 23. The winner will be the regional champion. Litchfield and St. Elmo in the Vandalia Sectional the week of Feb. 28-March 4.

The Red Devils have won their last two games. They won their last two games at the Spartan Mid-Winter Classic over Lebanon and Spartan to salvage a 2-2 showing. Waterloo won the semi-robin tournament, and Venice placed fourth.

"I thought it built up our confidence a little bit," coach Clinton Harris said. "Our freshmen are playing real well, and we picked up our defense."

Madison Khoury to meet Tuesday

The Madison Khoury League will hold its first meeting of 1994 at 7 p.m. Tuesday at the Madison Recreation Center, 7th and Lee Streets.

All league officials are requested to be present for the meeting, which will cover various activities scheduled for the 1994 season. Anyone interested in coaching, umpiring or working in concessions this year is also invited to attend. Player registration will begin Feb. 21.

For more information, call league president Frank Chandler at 452-5822.

GCSSA still seeking players

The Granite City Softball Association still has openings for its Monday night women's leagues and Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday men's leagues.

GCSSA is also interested in having a Friday night coed league. For more information, call Cindy Schubert at 931-5634 or Rick Demaree at 931-4774.

•Devils

They think people are just going to roll over because we're Venice. That's not the case any more."

Trailing 19-18 early in the third quarter, Antwon Griggs scored on a driving layup to give Venice a lead for keeps. The Red Devils settled a two-point run and gave the Red Devils an eight-point lead.

"Venice stepped up its defense in the second half and we have problems scoring," Metro East Lutheran coach Dave Schoedel said.

"They limited us to only one shot per trip. We couldn't handle (Jermaine) Ware inside."

"The guy is so strong. We couldn't block him out underneath."

Ware played one of his better games of the year and had 14 points, 10 rebounds, six steals and a pair of blocked shots.

But while those numbers impressed Schoedel, they had little effect on the game.

"He missed a lot of shots inside in the first half," Harris said. "He got lazy in the second quarter and it took away our inside game. But our guys picked it up in the second half."

"The last thing we wanted was to play from behind against these guys. They were serious; they wanted to win this game."

The Red Devils eventually built a 12-point lead in the fourth quarter and held off Metro East Lutheran to narrow that gap to six on a three pointer by Jon Frost with 1:18 to play. But the Red Devils settled the issue at the free-throw line.

"I'm proud of our kids," Schoedel said. "We were just a couple of layups or free throws away from an upset. But we hurt ourselves by not taking advantage of opportunities. Those things eventually add up against a team like us."

Brandon Burnett led Venice with 18 points. Gary Spiller led Metro East Lutheran with 14.

"We need to straighten up our attitude," Harris said. "If these guys get to play to their 100-100 points, then they must be mentally prepared to do it before the game."

"That means coming to play hard and doing the little things a team needs to do to be successful. It's not just going to happen. We've got to make it happen."

NOTES: Wilbert Glasper and Ron Johnson, who were suspended from the team last week for disciplinary reasons, will rejoin the Devils for Friday's game at Alton.

Venice will then visit Madison on Saturday night.

Caswell transfers back to East Side Senior star hopes to be eligible against Warriors

By R.J. Gerber
Staff writer

Tyrone Caswell, who found out Monday he could not play basketball any more at Lincoln High because of a judge's ruling, enrolled at East St. Louis Senior on Tuesday, hoping in hopes of returning to the court.

The decision of Associate Judge Robert Hillebrand was handed down Monday afternoon, determining Caswell had the right to continue playing for the Tigers. But Caswell returned to his former school, East Side, and began practicing Tuesday. He hopes to be declared eligible for Saturday's Southwestern Conference game at Granite City.

CASWELL AND his attorney, James Gomric, took the Illinois High School Association to court after executive director Dave Fry ruled Nov. 5 that Caswell was ineligible to play.

A temporary restraining order was obtained and Caswell played 12 games for Lincoln. But the order was lifted last week and Caswell had to sit out the past four games. Now, it seems he'll never play at Lincoln again.

The investigation into Caswell's transfer was initiated by East Side officials. Caswell's reason for transfer was to enroll in a science program offered at Lincoln but not at East Side. Caswell, who could not be reached for comment, never enrolled in the program. He went to East Side as early as last week to begin enrollment procedures.

"It's a big puzzle to me," Lincoln coach Bennie Lewis said Monday. "I hope (East Side principal Sam Morgan) and Fry can sleep well."

FRY SAID THAT without seeing a copy of Hillebrand's decision, he couldn't comment on whether Caswell would have to forfeit the 10 victories in which Caswell participated.

Fry did say, however, that if Caswell returned to East Side, another ruling would have to be made. The IHSA's decision could come as soon as today.

"(Caswell) attended Lincoln for a semester and didn't have to be on the books," Fry said. "That would be another intra-district transfer." Fry said Monday evening. "I believe it would require another ruling."

The IHSA, by law, is 944, which says a student who registers in a district within the first 10 days of a semester becomes eligible immediately. Morgan said the first day of the second semester was Monday.

Morgan said there's more than one of the best players in the area at his position. Kerkisick did a fine job on the boards. He played a valuable role."

Roth came out firing early, scoring 10 points in the first quarter. Lebanon's perimeter game got a boost from Douglass and Adam Schieppi, who had back-to-back three-pointers to give Lebanon an early 14-6 lead.

But the Trojans charged back in the second quarter, cutting Lebanon's lead to 37-29 by halftime. Point guard Anthony King led the way by running the offense and scoring eight of his game-high 23 points in the second quarter.

"During Madison's run, the Greyhounds had little offense besides Roth, who scored half of their 14 points in the second quarter."

"I don't know what caused that," Schieppi said. "I thought we were a little tired. I should have had a couple kids out. We were a little lax."

King kept up the pace in the second half, scoring 12 points and hitting two free throws. King also sparked the Trojans since joining the team last week during the Belleville East Invitational after becoming eligible.

The junior guard has taken over the playmaking duties for Eugene Williams, now at shooting guard. But Williams has struggled in his new role over the past several games. He was held to seven points Tuesday, all in the fourth quarter.

"King was running the point real well," Collins said. "It's a real plus for us."

"Frank (Williams) is putting pressure on himself. He has to loosen up. He's been the one we've been going to and now, we have to go to him."

The Trojans appear to be on the rise after spending most of the season rebuilding. King, Williams and sophomore Milan Jones are running the backcourt while Butler and senior forward Taylor Young are anchoring that inside.

Madison made it to the consolation game at Belleville East last week, and its come-back effort in the second quarter against Lebanon was yet another encouraging sign.

"The kids have no quit," Collins said. "That's what I like about them. They work together and never quit."

Madison fell to 6-11 with the loss. Lebanon improved to 10-9 and snapped a two-game skid.

BAC has 78 scholarships available for '94-95

The Belleville Area College Foundation, through its "Scholarships From Your Community," offers 78 scholarships totaling $45,000 for students enrolling at BAC for the 1994-95 school year.

The scholarships are awarded annually. Applications must be filed by March 11. All scholarships are for BAC district residents.

"The scholarships are designed for returning students, as well as high school graduates," said Lucille Davis, chairman of the foundation's scholarship committee. "We're grateful for the local businesses, organizations and individuals who have made gifts to the Belleville Area College Foundation to support these scholarships."

Fourteen scholarships are designated by geographic area, high school attended, or academic area. Recipients are selected by the donor, high school or college.

A brochure outlining the scholarships, which includes an application form, is now available at BAC's campuses in Belleville, Granite City and Red Bud, area.

high schools and at public libraries.

To receive a copy of the brochure, call the Foundation office at 235-2700, extension 215. Complete application forms may be mailed to the Foundation office, 2500 Carlyle Road, Belleville, Ill. 62226.

For complete details on all financial aid options, call BAC's Financial Aid office at 235-2700, extension 288.

Social Security not just for retirement

By Bill Hunot
Social Security Administration

Q. My sister and I have been debating whether Social Security is a "good deal." Her husband drew disability benefits and Medicare before he died. And after her husband's death, we and our children drew survivors' benefits for many years. Obviously, Social Security was a good deal for that family. They probably would have been better off without it. But I am starting my Social Security this year at age 62. Will I ever get back everything I paid into Social Security for all those years?

A. You've made several good points about Social Security. The system should not be evaluated as just a retirement system. It is much more than that. It is a program to society, as a whole, should be considered. Your sister's situation illustrates both points.

As far as you getting good value for your tax dollar, it depends on how much you've paid in and how long you will live.

Excluding Medicare taxes and the general payroll taxes that pay for disability benefits, the average Social Security retiree this year has paid $18,921 into the system. His employers' contributions are similar, so a total of $37,842 was paid in.

The benefit, at age 62, earned by that contributor would be $684 per month. That means the average retiree will receive 100 percent of his contributions and his employers' in less than five years.

A man retiring today, will, on average, draw Social Security for 20 years before he dies. An average woman will draw her benefit for nearly 20 years.

Remember, though, these figures do not include interest.

You may be saving your money had you saved it instead of paying Social Security taxes.

Q. I'm considering taking my Social Security benefits at age 62, but I have a few questions about it. How much of a cut will I take if I don't wait until 65? If I get benefits at 62, will my checks go up to 100 percent when I turn 65? When can I get my Medicare?

A. If you start getting benefits at age 62, your benefit will be reduced by 30 percent. The reduction is permanent. Your benefit will not increase at 65. You must be 65 to get Medicare unless you are disabled, or if you need kidney dialysis or a kidney transplant.
